Outcome

Edit

After pictures like this get sent around, people may then feel the need to harm themselves or even take their own lives. Horrible situations like this can be avoided by simply stopping and thinking before you push the send button.

If you are experiencing similar bullying and are contemplating self-harming, then be assured that there is support available. There are people to speak to such as; youth workers, school nurses and teachers, who can help. There are also 24-hour National helplines to call, see the back of this leaflet.
